The Ninja watched as the young Samurai walked into the training arena. This would be the final exam for both of these warriors, and only one would pass the class. With blinding speed, the Samurai drew his Katana and charged the black clad Ninja. Just as fast the Ninja was gone, swallowed up in a cloud of black smoke and nasty smelling vapor. All that could be heard were a few loud thuds, and as the smoke cleared, all looked down upon the Ninja warrior, who now stood over the fallen form of his foe.

This is Kung Fu U, the Sequel, the game of martial arts combat and fun times. Can you out fight your foe before they bring you down with a surprise attack? Can your Kung Fu out shine your foe's skills? Find out who is the best of the best with this exciting Mini-Game from Bad Baby Productions. While a full game in an of itself, when combined with the first edition of Kung-Fu U, these two game will expand the system and allow you to play even more fun games of Kung U madness.

Introduction

Kung Fu U allows players to build a martial arts deck, made up of various cards. When both players have constructed a deck, they then battle each other, using attacks and defensive moves as they try to defeat their opponents.

Simple to play and full of fast fun, Kung Fu U will fill hours of your time, so be warned and get your Ki up.

Game Construction

Once you are ready to play Kung Fu U, the first thing you will find necessary is to construct the game components. For the most part, the amount of time and extra expense you are willing to put into the game's construction is up to you. The simplest format is to print up all the needed parts and then just cut them out and go to it. Paper pieces are though, a bit difficult to deal with, so if you wish to continue to play Kung Fu U over and over again, and we hope you do, then you may want to invest a bit of time and effort in making your game components more durable and usable.

Suggestions on Component's Construction and Printing

First off, you should, if you want to spend the money, buy some good quality paper. Use this to print out the various cards and handouts. High end paper will give you a better quality image and if you set your printer to its highest quality setting, you should get a nice set of counters and cards. Next, get your hands on some spray glue. (Available at most craft stores and office supply stores) Use this to mount the cards onto thick card stock. This will make the parts easier to pick up and use, which generally creates a better over all experience. Should you wish, you can protect your many cards with a clear, self-adhesive, sheets of lamination. (Again available at most office supply stores)

Getting Started

Once the parts are ready to play with, each player will need to construct a deck for their martial artist. (See Player's Decks) Once the decks are ready, each player rolls 1D6.

The highest roll goes first, drawing and playing cards in this order. Note that the die rolled is also the player's starting activation dice and the number rolled is used for their first turn of activity.

Each player deals to themselves, at the start of the game, two cards. These are laid face up on the table. These cards are considered to be in play at the start of the game.

Each player then deals to themselves three more cards, which they place into their hand. These cards are the players' starting hand.

Last but not least, each player should lay out a damage chart before them and use a token of some sorts (Not supplied) to record their martial artist's current damage.

Cards

Kung Fu U is composed of a set of cards, each card showing some sort of attack, defense or ability that their martial artist may perform. As players draw cards from their deck, they will gain access to more abilities, but so to will their foe.

Player's Deck

Each player in the game must construct a deck from the cards supplied. The deck's composition of cards is up to the player, although there are some rules that govern just what and how many cards can be included.

The following governs the construction of a robot deck.

- A. All decks must have 20 cards, no more or less.
- B. No deck may have more than 10 red attack cards, 10 blue defense cards or 10 yellow maneuver cards.
- C. No deck may have more than five style cards. If style cards are included in a deck, then all styles cards must be of the same style. (You cannot have monkey cards and tiger cards in the same deck)
- D. No deck may have more than the four of the same cards.

Player's Hand

Each player may have up to five cards in their hand at any one time. If they for some reason end up with more than five cards, they must discard a number of cards to return them to the five card limit.

Cards, which are discarded are lost for the game and placed together in a discard pile.

Activation Dice

Each turn a player will roll, at the start of their turn, 1D6. This is their activation dice for the turn. The activation number thus rolled will remain in effect for that player until the start of their next turn.

When a player wishes to use a card that is in play, said card must have a speed that is equal, to or less than, the player's current activation number.

Example:

Ted has three cards in play and rolls an activation roll of 3. Two of his cards have a speed of 2 and so can be used this turn. One though, has a speed of 6 and so may not be used.

As you will note, both players may have different activation numbers, and thus be able to play different speed cards. Thus the type of cards you build your deck with and their speed will determine your fate in the game. Build a deck with a lot of low number cards may allow you to go often, but they will not do much damage when they are used. On the other hand build a deck with a lot of high speed cards and you may never get to do anything while you wait for that 6 to come up. Of course when you do roll that 6, watch out because these high-end cards can do a lot of damage.

Card Sample

Active Cards vs. Playable Cards

Playable cards are any cards you have laid down on the table. These cards are ready to be used, should you roll an activation roll high enough to activate them.

Active cards are playable cards, which have a speed that is equal to or lower, than your current activation number.

Turn Order

Each turn players will draw cards from their deck then place cards into play and use active cards as needed. When a player has conducted all the actions they are able to complete that turn, their turn ends and the next player may take their turn. This continues until the game ends.

All turns are conducted in the following order.

1. Roll your activation dice for that turn. Roll 1D6 and place it in front of you to show your current activation number.
2. Draw one card from your deck. You may not draw a card if you have five cards in your hand. Place this card into your hand.
3. Play one card from your hand, placing it on the table. (This card may be of any speed)

Worlds of Wonder

Worlds of Wonder is a fast, simple to play RPG system designed for use by advance players who wish to create detailed characters without having to roll on endless charts and deal with endless rules.

After 30 some years of playing, running and designing games, be they RPG's or board games, we at Bad Baby have come to one conclusion. Its not the game's rules that make it enjoyable, but the people your play with. With that in mind, Worlds of Wonder takes the most important aspect of any RPG, the character creation, and tries to offer players, and their GM, the tools needed to make the time they spend together playing, well worth the time spent.

Yes Worlds of Wonder will offer you a detailed combat system, and several magic options, but the majority of the information presented will deal with the creation of your character and the many options that will be open to you.

What we have tried to present to you with Worlds of Wonder is a detail means of generating the kind of characters that you will both find enjoyable, and a system that will keep you thinking on just what to do next with those characters.

Worlds of Wonder offers players, and GMs, a fully developed RPG system. The core system rules comes with the following...

- * A fully illustrated set of rules, completely booked marked for easy use.
- * Rules for generating and running a game using the WoW System,
- * An RPG system that is fully expandable, and easy to use.
- * 15 Skill Sets, each with 4 skills and 10 levels of advancement within each skill.
- * Over 100 Arcane spells, set within 5 schools of magic.
- * Over 100 Divine spells, set within several generic faiths.
- * 20 fully detailed monstrous foes to battle, with hundreds more coming soon.
- * A full color character sheet.
- * Lifetime updates should we upgrade and or revises the system in any way.
- * A full copy of the core rules set in a print friendly format.

Besides the core system, we here at Bad Baby are also including, for free, a copy of out most popular Battle Tile sets, Dungeon Chambers. Use these full color battle tiles to liven up your RPG games and to run the many battles you will encounter while adventuring in Worlds of Wonder.

Worlds of Wonder Expansions

Want more Worlds of Wonder, try one of the many expansions for the system. More monsters, foes, magic, skill sets and gaming stuff to keep you occupied for weeks, months, hell maybe for a lifetime. Ever expanding, the WoW system is made for gaming fun, so don't wait, have an adventure and enter Worlds of Wonder.
